Bobby, the number of casualties being kept over here in Japan is less than 1,800 despite the vast devastation, because it is the number of casualties the police have positively identified so far, but they are reporting tens of thousands of missing persons in each prefecture devastated by the Tsunami, landslide and avalanche. It would be real chaos if this kind of thing happens in the Philippines with people who are supposed to be praying for their lives even oblivious to the sufferings of many enough to dare engage in looting, etc., as they did when Mt. Pinatubo erupted. Yuko Joomla SEO powered by JoomSEF
