I am not even concerned about those dirty politicians. I am more concerned how the money being collected are dispensed with. Knowing how crooked the Filipinos - I can't even send something even of little value without it getting lost. They open the mail and take whatever is in it. - I fear that the money or goods sent go to the pockets of the people responsible for distributing the aid. They sell the goods and pocket the proceeds. I guess I'm being cynical but experience has taught me to be. I prefer sending the help to CBN for example or directly to the victim, if I know them. It's a shame.
