i think it is time for our government to protect the OFWs very seriously. it is not easy to live and work overseas even if i am based in europe. we experience brutal discrimination to the point that our country is being looked down because according to the white people ive spoken with, it is our government that support and encourage filipinos to work and be slave abroad. it doesnt matter where on earth they work. then there is that thousands of discrimination cases in arabian countries that are widely known but still blindly dealt with by our government. it hurts really and it is frustrating. we need both men and women leaders in our country that know how to protect womens rights. the catholic church should help address the issue directly to the people.
