

Part One of an Occasional Series

This writer nearly missed "Forgotten Warriors: Foreign workers for U.S. are casualties twice over" last Sunday, as it was Father's Day. (I was out the whole day with my children and grandchildren.) It appeared in the front page of the

Los Angeles Times

. Please read it by clicking on the hyperlinks that are found at the end of this article. The

Los Angeles

Times'

article is probably the most-authoritative documentation of the roles that some Third-World citizens have played (and continue to play) in the ongoing wars in

Iraq

and

Afghanistan

.

Thanks to the Los Angeles Times and the Propublica.org, our people can now know the real stories about some of the Filipino casualties resulting from the United States-led war against terrorism in

Iraq

and

Afghanistan

. This is in addition to the known casualties from our US-based community (Filipino-American soldiers who volunteered for duty in Iraq and Afghanistan).

Here are hyperlinks to the article and video presentations:

FORGOTTEN WARRIORS : Foreign workers for US are casualties twice ..

:

... her two years later. Video » . FORGOTTEN WARRIORS.
Foreign workers for US are casualties twice over. Email Picture.
Francine Orr / Los ...

World | By T. Christian Miller | June 21st, 2009

Forgotten Warriors - Civilian contractors

Video: Forgotten Warriors

... Video: Forgotten Warriors. Thousands of civilian contract workers from around the world have supported the US war effort in Iraq and Afghanistan

. . . .

California | Photography and video by Francine Orr / Los Angeles Times, produced by Albert Lee | June 22nd, 2009

Audio slide show: Rita's walk

... installed. Related. » Article: Injured war zone contractors fight to get care. » Photo Gallery: Forgotten Warriors. » Discuss on ...

California | Photography and audio by Francine Orr, Produced by Albert Lee / Los Angeles Times | June 22nd, 2009

Please check out also the Propublica's site at http://www.propublica.org/site/author/t_christian_miller/

(To be continued . . .)

Joomla SEO powered by JoomSEF