A year has gone and the many questions posed to the National Federation of Filipino-American Associations (NaFFAA) officials in 2009 are still awaiting answers. In the hope of finding some new information, we turned to its website, the <http://www.naffaa.org> . Not helpful either.

From the last time we visited the NaFFAA website last year, the sections and pages were undergoing some renovation, explaining that "our website is being updated".

Well, as of Sept. 2, 2010, the same rejoinder is there: "Our website is being updated, please be patient while we make some changes." The "changes" don't seem to be forthcoming. "The die is cast" on NaFFAA. Or is it already dead?
