Interesting read about Villar and the other candidates:

<http://www.malaya.com.ph/01072010/edbanayo.html> I prefer to elect an incompetent loser to a position of public service rather than someone who desires it greatly. The Athenians of ancient Greece filled important administrative positions by the simple drawing of lots. They risked putting someone incompetent in position but they preferred that to putting in power someone already powerful and capable of buying votes. The Athenians did rather well with this system, I believe. Joomla SEO powered by JoomSEF
